UNDERSTAND THE CPA EXAM

THE CPA EXAM

A FOUR-SECTION PATH TO THE CPA CREDENTIAL

The U.S. CPA Exam follows a Core + Discipline model. Every candidate must pass three Core sections - AUD, FAR and REG - and choose one Discipline section from BAR, ISC or TCP.

FAR (FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING & REPORTING)

Develop a strong understanding of financial reporting and accounting concepts.

Key Areas

- | | |
|--|--|
| • Financial accounting and reporting | • Financial statements |
| • Transactions and account balances | • Financial reporting frameworks |
| • Governmental and not-for-profit accounting | • Accounting concepts and applications |

01

AUD (AUDITING & ATTESTATION)

Build the knowledge required to understand audit and attestation engagements.

Key Areas

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| • Audit planning | • Risk assessment |
| • Internal controls | • Audit evidence |
| • Audit procedures | • Professional responsibilities |
| • Audit reports and conclusions | |

02

REG (TAXATION & REGULATION)

Develop knowledge of U.S. taxation, business law and professional responsibilities.

Key Areas

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---|
| • Individual taxation | • Business taxation |
| • Federal tax procedures | • Business law |
| • Professional responsibilities | • Tax-related concepts and applications |

03

CHOOSE YOUR DISCIPLINE

BAR (BUSINESS ANALYSIS & REPORTING)

Financial analysis, technical accounting, reporting and business analysis.

ISC (INFORMATION SYSTEMS & CONTROLS)

Information systems, IT controls, security, data management and related assurance concepts.

TCP (TAX COMPLIANCE & PLANNING)

Advanced taxation, tax compliance, planning and individual/entity tax matters.

The Discipline is a choice within the CPA Exam model, and passing any one of BAR, ISC or TCP can lead toward the same CPA licensure pathway, subject to the applicable jurisdiction's requirements.
